The Forces Behind The Sword and the Shield

CHART

The Shield forces provide flexibility by enabling the Alliance to respond to military aggrssion with great diversity of defensive means ranging from the most modern conventional weapons up through tactical atomic weapons. They provide validity by the substantial manner in which they are positioned, trained, and continually exercised to enable them to discharge their defensive roles.

Let us presume, for the moment, that there were no forces deployed along this critical arc, or that there were only token forces whose capability for any real effective response to hostile attack would be a facade that was as apparent to any would-be aggressor as it would be to the Alliance itself. Let us further presume that, in this area of growing nuclear power, it is unlikely any state would deliberately launch an all-out thermo-nuclear attack with its inevitable holocaust, since both sides posses what might be termed as "over-kill" capacities.

Under such conditions there could still be a hostile attack or incursion anywhere along this line, prompted either by accident on the part of hostile forces in a period of critical tension or by deliberate design on the part of an aggressor state to determine what gains might be achieved through the calculated risk of direct military action. In such eventuality, the Alliance could well be abruptly con-fronted with a "fait accompli" in the form of a seizure of a portion of NATO peoples and territories. It would likewise be immediately confronted with a decision concerning corrective action to be taken. Under the circumstances outlined, it would be patently apparent that the only effective means of response available to the Alliance would be the vast destructive powers of the Sword forces. This would indeed be an awesome and difficult decision for the Alliance to consider but a decision that it would be forced to face by virtue of the aggressor's hostile actions.

On the other hand, with reasonaable numbers of ground, air and sea forces, properly deployed along this line, adequately equipped with modern weapons of both conventional and atomic capabilities and evidently maintained at effective levels of combat readiness—the Alliance could and would respond immediately to any hostile action directed against it. It could bring to bear against that action minimum but adequate, defensive means of whatever type required to cause a halt, break or pause in its progression. In the course of such break or pause, the aggressor would be immediately confronted with a decision as to whether he should halt his offensive action or raise the level of his effort in the face of the dreadful risk it would entail. For, in arriving at a decision, he could not consider solely

Service Complacency

How often in the barracks and mess halls one hears the statement that there is "nothing to do." It is surprising the number of stations one may visit in Canada to find people unhappy, simply because they are bored with the routine of Service Life. They have accepted a way of life in which their powerful them. life in which their personalities stagnate. In this frame of mind, they neither add to nor take from the Service to whih they are a part.

The recruit is above average in intelligence and health. He has stated in his personal history form that he participates in one or more sports and that he has yielded to at least one hobby. Yet in a minimum of two years, sixty percent of the unmarried personnel have gained weight, lost body muscle tone, and apparently lost interest in sports activities. When questioned about this, the same person with "nothing to do" finds he hasn't enough time in which to do it.

The Air Force has gone to great lengths to establish a physical fitness program so superior that a number of business firms and organizations in Canada and the United States have adopted it. However, within the service it is followed by only a small percentage. The Air Force has developed a sports-minded-ness that is unsurpassed. Each year staff and equipment is available to provide each and every member with nearly every possible sport. The number of proposed sports is fantastic—the number participating is not.

If you should find yourself on a station with "nothing to do" don't YOU be a part of the sixty percent.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Perhaps an article directed to those in responsibility will cause a passing prick of conscience sufficient to bring about a reversal of the recent increase in the cost of meals purchased in the Airmen's Messhall. For those who are not aware of it, the cost of meals has been increased from 50 cents

There are, of course, many points of view from which this increase may be considered. The Food Services staff are charged with the responsibility of presenting attractive and nourishing meals to living-in personnel. It is difficult to fault an attitude which aims at such high standards within a restricted budget. Like everyone else, they are confronted with soaring costs but fixed formal incomes. To meet this challenge, they chose to gain revenue from their only flexible source; personnel livingout who patronize the messhalls for the noon-day meals either through choice or necessity.

Surely, however, it is equally difficult for living out personnel to meet these same challenges, on smaller scales, in their own homes. This increase in meal costs brings forth with impact the alarming increase in food costs, but is it reasonable for the few to be burdened with discharging this increase for the many? Is this not more a frank admission that the RCAF ration allowance is not sufficient for its purpose.

After all, the messing staff, with this increase, are declaring a 30% increase in food costs. This means that they claim that the ration allowance is sufficient only at a level as set in 1949, if we use the national cost-of-living index.

Consider this to the personal income of the people most affected by this increase. A living out airman is paid $30.00 per month ration allowance. He works, on the average, 22 days each month and, presumably, eats and pays for one meal per day in the messhall. This means that he is now paying approximately 50% of his ration allowance for 25% of his meals.

In fairness to the Food Services staff, it must be realized that the extra money obtained by purchased meals goes toward extra messing benefits, and no one would accuse this staff of extravagence or waste. But how about it fellas? If your costs are high, so are ours, and there's only so much blood in that stone. Why not wait until we get a reasonable cost of living increase; why demand that those of us who use and value your services pay more out of a fixed income before that income is increased.

Dear Sir:

In reply to your correspondent of 8th February, I am sure that a number of married quarters residents share Mrs. Robinson's interest in Community Council matters and I would appreciate the opportunity to relate some of the present Council's activities and aims.

The Community Council's only source of funds is the MQ Assessment which is contributed by each resident of married quarters. While the great majority of all funds expended are in direct or indirect support of various sports activities and recreational programs in which RCAF dependents are engaged, as duly elected representative of the residents who contribute the money, the members of the Community Council attempt to allocate the funds available in accordance with what they believe to be the wishes of the majority of their constituents. As Mrs. Robinson so rightly observed, there was a crying need from those more fortunately placed to assist the Christmas Cheer Board, and this donation was approved unani-mously by all the members of Council who attended the meeting, held on 20th December. It would appear that this charitable donation met with widespread approval, according to the reports of Ward Councillors.

Recently, Council funds have also been allocated towards the purchase of hockey equipment, sticks, pucks, etc. and team sweaters for the Dependents Hockey League; and there are over one hundred eager youngsters participating in this particular sports activity. In addition, the Dependents Bowling League has just been started with financial assistance from Community Council funds, and the young speed swimmers of the Dependents Swim Club have received financial backing as well. We anticipate requests for financial support from the Dpendents Curling League, the Junior Rifle Club, and of course Little League Baseball when that season arrives. It has been our view that Community funds should not be used to subsidize these organizations completely, but that each group, through its membership fees, admission charges, etc., should be partly self-supporting. The Community Council should then provide financial support to each group according to its membership, for such items as prizes, af-

Our Scouts, Guides, Cubs, and Brownies will don their uniforms to attend their Annual Baden-Powell Church Service in the Chapel this Sunday at 1100 hours. There will not be a parade as such. Seats will be reserved at the front of the Chapel to allow members of the Scouting Movement to sit together. The Junior Choir will be in attendance. Scouts and Guides and Brownies and Cubs who will be members of the Colour Party or assisting with the Service are requested to meet in the Chapel on Saturday at 1300 hours for a rehearsal.

Lent begins on Ash Wednesday which falls this year on the 27th February. The Lenten Season commemorates the forty days and forty nights of fasting and prayer which Our Lord Jesus Christ undertook before He began His Public Ministry. When He emerged from this period of fasting and prayer, Our Lord saw clearly what His work involved and He was strengthened to carry it through even though it involved the death at the Cross.

The Christian Way is, essentially, a life-long battle against self and a development in each person of habits of love. Because we are not naturally inclined to think of and do for other people first, there is no greater or more difficult task. Such sacrificial love demands that utmost of each person in terms of self-discipline and self-control. Christians traditionally use the Lenten Season as a special time for practising self-discipline, for test-ing and strengthening their willpower, and for some clear thinking about their own personal lives and of their particular mission life.

And so, during Lent, by special hours of prayer and meditation, at home and in church, as well as by practical tests of will, we commemorate Our Lord's Fast and are better prepared to give thanks for

TEEN BEAT

SENIOR TEENS

The toboggan party held on Saturday, February 9, proved highly successful. The combined turnout of the St. John's Cathedral Young People and Senior Teens was ap proximately 40 kids, 5 adults, and 20 toboggans. Original plans to go to Lockport having to be changed, we switched our direction towards the slides at East Kildonan. The evening wound up with a sock hop at St. John's.

On Sunday, February 10, our guest speaker was Mr. Botha from South Africa. His lecture dealt with the differences between Canada and Africa; he covered subjects from animals to religions to segregation. It was a most interesting and informative evening.

On February 17th a swimming party was held in the pool with the St. John's Young People from St. John's Anglican Cathedral on Church Avenue. It was a very successful party - especially the refreshments afterwards.

Next week, a film entitled "The Black and White of South Africa" will follow along the theme which Mr. Botha, an Afrikaan, began. Mr. Botha spoke last week on various things in South Africa. The film next week deals with racial prejudice in South Africa.

We are glad to see so many new faces each week at Senior Teens. The invitation is always extended to anyone who is over fourteen years of age who wishes to come to the Senior Teen meetings every Sunday night at 7 p.m. in the Protestant Church annex.

Last Sunday afternoon the flight cadet hockey team assured themselves of first place when they upset one of the army teams by a score of 4-1. Let's hope they continue their winning ways when the play-offs start next week.

Tonight a band dance will be held in the mess in honour of 09 Nav who graduated this morning. If you feel up to another good night of fun after last week's graduation come on out and help the boys from 09 celebrate.

Tomorrow morning F/C Barry Crozier of course 6204 is going to become one of "them". He is getting married. Naturally we want to congratulate him and wish him the best of luck. But we sure hope he can still find time to come to the mess and show us the "not what to do's" of ping pong. We need the laughs.

any isolated composition of forces to the immediate front of the combat area or any isolated segment of NATO territories, but would have to take into account the combined defensive strength of the Shield forces, backed up, if necessary, by the heavy, strategic retaliatory capabilities of the Alliance's Sword forces.

This would indeed be an awesome and difficult decision for the aggressor to consider, but a decision that would confront him immediately by virtue of his initial hostile acts. So long as NATO has means to defend itself there is reasonable basis for the conviction that no actions would be taken to lead to the need for such a decision. Perhaps the best rationale for such conviction lies in a simple historical fact, evident since NATO's creation. Since the treaty was signed in April 1949, there have been numerous instances of open conflict in various parts of the world, prompted by deliberate attempts on the part of the Communist block to achieve objectives through military means. There was the crossing of the 38th Parallel in Korea in 1950 and military conflict in Southeast Asia. Yet, during the twelve years of NATO's existence not one inch of its territory has been involved in, or even directly threatened by, overt military action. And, if the Alliance will continue to maintain the minimum but adequate defensive strength needed to preserve its peace and security so long as such means are needed for that purpose, there is no reason from a technical, economic or political point of view that this condition should not prevail for the life of the Alliance, however long that may be.

BOY SCOUTS TO HONOR B.P.

The name of Baden Powell is to be found in many history books as one of the very great men of the twentieth century. No one man has been more publicized, spoke about, appeared on more postage stamps than Baden Powell throughout the world. An older generation remembers him best, perhaps as the great soldier, master of tactical deception whose defence of Mafeking was an outstanding feature of the Boer War.

A younger generation remembers him as the founder of the Boy Scout and Girl Guide Movements and the first and only Chief Scout of the World.

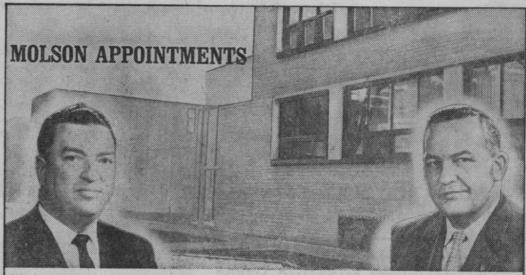

His memory will be honoured across Canada on Feb. 17th or 24th, 1963, in special "B.P. Sunday" church services, many of them jointly sponsored by Girl Guides and Boy Scouts. B.P. Sunday will be the final function of Boy Scout Week, 1963 in Canada.

Distaff Side

Once upon a time we had the good sense to realize that periodic despair is normal, that squabbles between husbands and wives or parents and children are unavoidable, that not everybody is intended by God or fate or biochemistry to live in bliss unending. We even had enough horse sense to realize that anyone who is happy all the time must be made. For we know that one indication of good health is precisely the capacity to be unhappy when reality warrants it to be unhappy without anxiety, apology or defensiveness.

Fun is a word we once reserved for children. Adults did not have fun; they had pleasure. Today, in our passion to be happy we are not only substituting childish pleasures for adult behaviour, we are subtly changing the very goals of that behaviour. Relax has replaced try. Spend has replaced save. Be happy has replaced achieve something.

We have had an appeal for help in locating a pair of boy's skates, size 1 for a youngster whose father is a Multiple sclerosis patient and therefore unable to provide such luxuries for a small boy. If anyone has such a pair of skates they would like to donate, would you please call Mrs. Hodgson at VE 2-0731. She will be happy to pick them up.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Cheesecake

- 1 sandwich cream cheese (or Philadelphia cream cheese)
- 1 cup white sugar
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 teaspoon vanilla 2 tablespoons orange juice

Mix ingredients well. Beat egg whites stiff and fold into cheese mixture.

Crumb mixture:

3/4 cup margarine

2 tablespoons brown sugar 23/4 cups crushed graham wafers Mix and press into bottom of square pan, reserving approximately 1 cup of crumbs for topping. Pour cheese mixture over crumbs, sprinkle with topping. Bake for 15 minutes in 375 degree oven-then lower heat to 350 and bake another 15 minutes. Open oven door and allow cake to cool in oven. This is the secret to success with this recipe so be sure to leave your cake in the oven to cool. This cake in the oven to cool. recipe may also be topped with thickened pie cherries or pineapple, or chopped marachino cherries may be added to th echeese mixture for variation. This is Trudy Shannon's wonderful cheesecake recipe. Many of the ladies who were lucky enough to sample this cake at the Chapel Guild supper last week will want to add this very special recipe to their collection, I am sure. Incidentally, Trudy buys her sandwich cream cheese in half pound cartons from the milkman because the price is more reasonable than the Philadelphia cream cheese in the stores, and it is just as good.

LETTER TO EDITOR

filiation fees, and other extra expenses which can be borne by the community as a whole. This financial support is particularly important when a group is first getting started; after it has operated for a while and has gathered some support, Community subsidization should become less necessary.

Indirectly, the Community Council supports the Guides, Brownies, Scouts and Wolf Cubs, as well as the other groups which make use of the Community Centre. This indirect support is continuous, i.e. wages to the janitor, telephone rental, etc., but essential to the operation of the Centre.

One area with which we are directly associated and about which we are very concerned is the Teen Town. This group of young people is now on the verge of extinction because of the lack of chaperones. Earlier in the season, our Councillor for Youth received offers of help from a number of interested adults, some of whom were parents of teen-agers who belong to Teen Town, and others who felt that this way of making a positive contribution to the community. As time passed, however, and memories of offers to help grew dim, the perennial problem of finding interested persons again arose. This has now grown to a point where we must consider whether the Teen Town organization can continue to operate in the face of this indifference. The lack of adult leadership and interest in supervising the social and group activities of our teen-age dependents is a problem that requires most serious consideration by all parents. In this respect I must voice my disagreement with Mrs. Robinson and indicate that the allotment of community council funds will not alone provide the recreation needed for the youngsters without the additional supervision, guidance and training that can only come from group leaders, parents and chaperones.

The members of the Community Council were very pleased to learn that a number of married quarters residents living near Leicester Square had flooded the small skating rink. Because the adjacent hydrant was not working properly this rink and one other, could not be flooded at the time volunteer work crews had packed the boards with wet sand, in the absence of enough snow. The ensuing sub-zero weather prevented the authorities from allowing the hydrants to be opened, and indeed, if it had not been for this fine display of cooperation by the Leicester Square residents, it is doubtful if that rink could have been flooded until some weeks had passed. Frankly, the idea of connecting garden hoses together hadn't occurred to any of us; but this happy thought saved the day. One the other hand, it really isn't such a bad thing for some of the MQ residents who live nearby, and for whose children's use the rinks are intended, to join together in such a fashion to accomplish a community objective; again, this display of communal initiative is very much appreciated and is to be hoped that it will serve as an example that will extend into other areas where similar effort is required.

In the operation of any community effort such as the Married Quarters Community Council, there is a tendency to feel that we are functioning in somewhat of a vacuum. We hold our meeting, discuss and deliberate on a number of items, publish the minutes, distribute them to each resident, and quite often there is simply no reaction to what we had considered to be important and interesting matters. Thus, in replying to Mrs. Robinson's letter I have attempted, also, to indicate some of the areas in which the Community Council operates with funds contributed by residents of Married Quarters. I would also hope that MQ residents will continue to express their views of Council affairs either through their Ward Councillor, in person a Council meetings, which are held on the third Monday of each montant 1330 hrs at the Community Centre, or, as in Mrs. Robinson letter, through the columns of Voxair.

RED RIVER REELERS

The station square dancing club, the Red River Reelers, held a gala Valentine party on February 12th in Building 24.

After a most enjoyable evening of dancing and fun, with approximately 24 couples in attendance, things were topped off by a lovely lunch. There was a very attractive Valentine cake, amongst the food stuffs which caught everyone's eye.

It is gratifying to the executive of the club to find that more and more of the Red River Reelers are turning up at the Federation Dances which are held on the 2nd Saturday of every month at Weston School. Since the club is mixing more they are becoming much better known throughout the district and are therefore receiving more invitations to join other clubs at specific dances. There are 4 or 5 dances coming up shortly which will be advertised later for those interested. Anyone interested in joining the club is asked to come along on Tuesday evenings at 8 p.m. in Building 24. You will find a very friendly group, ready to welcome you.

There are several good books on coins containing useful information and these can be purchased at coin shops here in Winnipeg. Some of the book stores also handle various interesting books on the subject with many pictures and illustrations of coins from all parts of the world.

One of these highly informative books is "treasury of the world's coins" by author Fred Reinfeld, showing coins from ancient Greece and Rome to the present . . . all the history, fascinating lore of coins with more than 750 illustrations.

The author, in the course of writing, received advice and criticism from a number of people whom he wishes to thank. These include professor Gilbert Highet of Columbia University, for his penetrating criticisms of the section on the ancient world.

Marianne Singer Anderson for her perceptive reading of many sections of the manuscript. The author's good friend, Granville Whatmough of Preston, England, for supplying numismatic material that is difficult to obtain in the United States.

Dr. Vladimir Clain-Stefanelli, the noted authority on ancient coins, for drawing on his impressive store of scholarly knowledge and providing illustrations of outstandingly magnificent Greek and Roman coins.

Arnold Andersen of the United Nations and Ross MacDonald of Toronto, for their helpful comments on the Scandinavian and Canadian sections, respectively.

After considerable discussion, was agreed that the present poi system was not exactly feasib and that henceforth a goal or a sist on a goal would both awar one point to the person or person responsible. The general opinio seemed to be that a person a sisting on a goal was as duly i sponsible for it as the individu scoring. #### 111 KU HIGHLIGHTS

BY F/L R.A. MACKENZIE

The following is an excerpt from the Winnipeg Tribune by S. A. R.

"At 11.30 a.m., Jan. 22, 25-yearold bush pilot Stewart Wilson took off in a single-engined Norseman aircraft from the isolated mining community of Pickle Lake in Northwestern Ontario.

Wilson, a Trans-Air Ltd. pilot was making another of countless similar flights to the Caribou Lake region 80 miles to the north.

The young pilot and his plane have not been seen since

In contrast to the Unit's recent searches in the Headless Valley of the Nahanni River, with peaks in the area rising to over nine thousand feet, the terrain over which pilot Wilson was flying offered little in the way of natural hazards to flying a ski-equipped aircraft - few areas in the world would have more lakes to the square mile. Certainly not to a man who had logged 4,000 hours Norseman time over a period of two years out of Pickle Lake. One can only speculate that the intangibles of weather and an unforseen emergency might have played a part in young Wilson's tragic flight of Jan. 22nd.

On speaking with Mr. Ted Quirk, Trans-Air Ltd.'s check pilot, it was learned that the area had claimed many aircraft, in fact he himself had to walk out on two occasions from a disabled aircraft, covering distances of up to sixteen miles on foot. Certainly Mr. Wilson was well supplied with emergency equipment and rations to hold out for some considerable time. It is obvious that flving a mail schedule in the bush is more than a means of a livelihood — it is a dedicated way of life and would not suit a man who prefers comfort and security to a challenging and risky occupation.

From 111KU's point of view the operation was a credit to all who participated, particularly the searchmaster, F/L Stuart Orser, who averaged less than five hours sleep throughout the eighteen days of active searching. Crew fatigue was a consideration that was offering grave concern to the OC, S/L Don Lewis. Our Deputy OC, F/L Gord Grant logged over thirty hours night time in the first four days.

F/L Jim Errington co-ordinated the civilian a/c flying out of Pickle Lake.

Search crews were in the air around the clock, flying aircraft from 111 KU, the Air Navigation School, 402 Reserve Squadron, Trans-Air Ltd., not to mention numerous other civilian aircraft which volunteered their services. Weather conditions at the time of Wilson's flight, though not ideal, were not considered marginal enough to cause Wilson to stray unduly far from his intended flight plan. Taking this into consideration the search was extended to the maximum reasonable distance from Wilson's track, and the probable areas were covered up to twelve times.

Not a single valid clue came to light during the entire search, though every lead, no matter how nebulous, was exhaustively followed through. All facts considered,

BROOMBALL

Combines and Workshops now remain in a deadlock for first position in the standings and they battle it out on Monday, 18 Feb. to determin first place. Another cold weather cancellation was realized between the Shamrocks and the Airwomen last Wednesday so they will be required to meet under more moderate temperatures at the first opportunity available.

To put the finishing touch on the broomball season for another year all participants can look forward to a wind-up banquet to be held sometime in April. Plans have not been finalized as yet but they are definitely in the making.

Well, that's it for another week folks, so until next week, see you at the rink!

it was felt that if Mr. Wilson had successfully crash landed he would have been able to attract the attention of Search Aircraft.

The aircraft out of Pickle Lake will continue to look for any signs of the Norseman. Trans-Air Ltd's. contribution of men and machines to the search speaks highly of this very fine Winnipeg company. Expense was not even considered in their untiring efforts to find their esteemed employee.

The staff writers of the local press, radio, and television, were on the spot reporting from RCAF aircraft and commented very favorably on the efforts of all concerned with particular reference to the high morale and dedication of 111 KU.
